DETERGENT White: Universal powder, full dose — the bleach in powder is what keeps whites from going grey

White Socks: Universal powder, full dose

DRYING White: Tumble dry normal, or line dry in the sun — sunlight bleaches whites for free.

White Socks: Tumble dry normal.

WASH TOGETHER WITH each other

NOTES White: Wash whites on their own. One stray coloured sock is all it takes.

DETERGENT Universal powder, full dose. Go lighter rather than heavier: excess detergent stiffens terry.

DRYING Tumble dry medium — the tumbling is what fluffs the pile back up.

WASH TOGETHER WITH nothing else — wash alone

NOTES Never fabric softener: it coats the loops in silicone and the towel stops absorbing. White vinegar in the softener drawer once a month softens instead.

DETERGENT Colour liquid detergent. Go lighter rather than heavier: excess detergent stiffens terry.

DRYING Tumble dry medium — the tumbling is what fluffs the pile back up.

WASH TOGETHER WITH nothing else — wash alone

NOTES Never fabric softener — it kills absorbency. Run them at 60 °C every month or so if they start to smell.

6. Microfibre Towels ~1:30

DETERGENT Liquid detergent, half dose. What doesn't rinse away stays in the split fibre and stops it picking anything up.

DRYING Air dry, or tumble on low. High heat fuses the split ends shut and the towel never absorbs again.

WASH TOGETHER WITH nothing else — wash alone

NOTES Never fabric softener — it fills the split fibres with silicone and the towel is finished. Wash with microfibre only: the same split ends that make it absorbent grab cotton lint and never let go.

DETERGENT Dark: Liquid detergent for dark/black — optical brighteners are what leave that grey haze

Black Socks: Liquid detergent for dark/black

Denim: Liquid detergent for dark/black

DRYING Dark: Line dry inside out, out of direct sun. Skip the dryer: heat fades black fastest.

Black Socks: Line dry, or tumble on low.

Denim: Hang by the waistband and air dry. A hot dryer shrinks them and destroys the elastane in stretch denim.

WASH TOGETHER WITH each other

NOTES Turn everything inside out. The extra rinse matters here — detergent residue dries as grey streaks on black.

Denim: Inside out, zips and buttons closed. Wash them far less often than you think.

Delicates / Silk

6 clockwise from Off

DETERGENT A capful of pH-neutral or denim-specific detergent. No bleach, no enzymes.

DRYING Hang inside out indoors, away from sun and radiators. Never tumble.

WASH TOGETHER WITH nothing else — wash alone

NOTES Unwashed denim is meant to go months before its first wash. Gentler than the machine: a 45-minute cold soak in the bath, inside out, no agitation, no wringing — then roll in a towel to press the water out.

9. Merino Wool + Cashmere Blend ~0:40

NO SOFTENER Wool 30 °C · 400 rpm

Wool

7 clockwise from Off

DETERGENT Merino Wool: Wool detergent, half dose. No enzymes, no proteases, no bleach — they eat the fibre.

Cashmere Blend: Wool or cashmere detergent, half dose. No enzymes, no proteases, no bleach.

DRYING Merino Wool: Never tumble dry. Dry flat on a towel, away from radiators and sun — hung up it stretches and never comes back.

Cashmere Blend: Never tumble dry. Squeeze the water out, never wring, then dry flat on a towel away from any heat.

WASH TOGETHER WITH each other

NOTES Merino Wool: Turn inside out, wash with wool only, nothing with zips. Merino barely needs washing — air it overnight and wear it again.

Cashmere Blend: Inside out, and only ever with other wool. Cashmere pills where it rubs — that is the fibre behaving normally, not a fault; a cashmere comb takes it off. Check the blend first: a little nylon makes it tougher, silk makes it more delicate.

10. Synthetic Activewear ~1:10

NO SOFTENER Sportswear 30 °C · 800 rpm

Sportswear

14 clockwise from Off

DETERGENT A small dose of mild pH-neutral liquid detergent. Too much is what makes them smell.

DRYING Air dry on a hanger — dry within the hour. Tumble heat kills the stretch.

WASH TOGETHER WITH nothing else — wash alone

NOTES Inside out. Never softener: it films over the fibres these rely on for wicking and stretch. A cup of white vinegar in the rinse resets a load that already smells. Covers tops, shorts and base layers — one fabric family, one wash. Mixed colours are fine in one run: at 30 °C the dyes on polyester barely move. The exception is a brand-new black or strong red piece, which can crock for a wash or two — give that its own run first.

11. Gym Socks ~1:20

DETERGENT Liquid detergent, normal dose

DRYING Tumble dry low or line dry.

WASH TOGETHER WITH nothing else — wash alone

NOTES Give them a 60 °C cotton run every few weeks — 40 °C keeps them clean but doesn't reset the smell.

12. Wool Trainers ~0:40

NO SOFTENER Wool cold · 400 rpm

Wool

7 clockwise from Off

DETERGENT A small amount of mild detergent — a wool detergent is ideal. No bleach.

DRYING Air dry only, somewhere with moving air: outside, by a window, or in front of a fan. Never the dryer and never a radiator — heat warps the sole and shrinks the wool upper.

WASH TOGETHER WITH nothing else — wash alone

NOTES Pull the insoles and laces out first and wash those by hand. The shoes go in a mesh delicates bag or a pillowcase, on their own — a loose trainer batters the drum and everything in it.

13. Linen ~1:30

NO SOFTENER Easy Care 40 °C · 800 rpm

Spin rpm

0 400 600 800 1200 1400

Easy Care

3 clockwise from Off

DETERGENT Mild liquid detergent, no bleach — bleach yellows linen and breaks the fibre down over time

DRYING Line dry, or tumble low and pull out a little damp — bone dry locks creases in.

WASH TOGETHER WITH nothing else — wash alone

NOTES New linen sheds a little dye/lint for the first few washes — wash alone until it rinses clear, then fine with other 40 °C loads.

Durations are the machine's own estimates and vary with load.
